How to find ebooks

The screenshot shows the website for The Royal Society of Medicine. At the top left is the RSM logo. The top right features a user profile for Miss D Hilmer with links for 'basket' and 'logout', and a search bar labeled 'Search RSM'. A horizontal navigation menu includes 'events', 'sections', 'prizes & awards', 'library', 'e-resources' (which is underlined), 'club', 'support us', and 'about us'. Below the navigation, a breadcrumb trail reads 'home > e-resources >'. The main content area is divided into several sections: 'library resources' with text about RSM members' access to world-class resources; 'rsm library' featuring an image of a person at a computer and text about the library's collection; 'library catalogue' with a search box and a list of actions like 'Request an article'; 'your member benefits' with an image of people and a 'find out more' button; 'e-learning' with an image of a laptop and a graduation cap; 'e-journals and e-books' with a 'Full Text Finder' logo and text about search services; 'databases' featuring the 'ProQuest Dialog' logo and text about access to six key medical databases; and 'clinicalkey' with an orange banner and text about Elsevier's clinical resource. At the bottom, there are four buttons: 'view videos', 'view e-journals and e-books', 'view databases', and 'access Clinical Key'. A footer menu at the very bottom lists various site sections like 'Home', 'Events', 'Library', 'Sections', 'Club', 'Venue', 'Global health', 'RSM Videos', 'Innovation', 'JRSM', 'Media', 'Careers', 'About us', 'Support us', 'Join us', and 'Contact us'.
